PITTSBURG DISPATCH,

BUILT IN A SEASON. The Marvelous Growth of Ivanhoe at the Mouth of Montour Run-Great Grease and Gas There, Sare. Unlike the city of Guthrie, in Oklahoma, but like a greater city, Rome, Ivanhoe, at the mouth of Montour run, Pittsburg and Lake Eric Railroad, was not built in a day, and probably will not be fully built for sevarmy. This proclamation, he said, would be a constitutional precedent for the measeral days to come; but its progress in this section of steady habits is somewhat of a At the time of the last snow there was only a town on paper there. Now miles of streets have been laid out, board walks built, a stone quarry stripped and the debris used in the filling of low places, and several houses have assumed shape, and there is a bustle and activity about the place that makes an old-time oil operator think of Pit-

Then, too, the place lies on the gas belt, and though Robinson township is only scratching its eyes open, it seems likely to awake some of these mornings to the fact that its worn-out knobs are underlaid with rich stores of greess and gas. rich stores of grease and gas.

The conviction is almost strong enough to reconcile the Prohibitionists there to prohi-

$60,000 Spot Cash. One of the heltiest real estate transactions of the season, considering that the purchase is believed to be merely for residence, was effected yesterday by ex-Alderman John C. Reilly, No. 77 Diamond street. It was the sale of 187 feet on Fifth avenue by 526 feet in depth, near Barton street, to James M. Ferguson for $60,000 spot cash. The ground belonged to the estate of the late John Bar-

Mr. Reilly states that he understands that Mr. Ferguson bought the ground for a resi-ences on the Frontier. Ex-Mayor Fulton has been in Oklahoma

He said he had never in his life witnessed so much excitement as he had seen out there. But his advice is that a man should think twice before determining to go there by himselt. The Mayor has made arrangements with Pawnee Bill, who was in Pitts-burg last year, and he expects to own about 400 acres of land in Oklahoma very soon.

HOME AND THE STATE

Constitute the Twin Topics of Most Interest Discussed by

THE CONVENTION OF REFORMERS.

Immigrants, the Oath, Political Morals, and Marriage Handled.

WILL SUNDAY MAILS AND TRAINS STOP? When the conference of the National Reform Association was resumed vesterday morning there were 300 to 400 delegates in attendance, and there was fervent prayer at the outset for the recovery of Rev. Dr. Jonathan Edwards, of Meadville, whose serious illness was announced. The opening address by Rev. James Morrow, D. D., on "The Nation's Responsibility for Her Immigrant Population," deprecated the general proneness of the people to regard immigrants as a curse in the ine of pauperism. They brought and created wealth among us. Particularly mean and distionorable was it for America to treat Chinese immigrants as she did, in view of the better treatment our people receive over there, and in view of the industry and thrift of this class of immigrants. "The Oath and its Abuses, or Profanity a National Evil," which was to have been presented by Dr. Edwards, was discussed by several, in his absence. Dr. McAllister thought the oath, as mumblingly administered in our courts, a mere farce. Dr. Stevenson lamented that the Divinity was not recognized in administering the oath to the United States President. Profanity might increase until this should be done. Dr. Hibbard, on the Biblical Injunction "Swear Not at All," recommended the total abolition of the oath, with affirmations as a sub-

CHRISTIANITY AND LABOR. Then came the address on "The Labor Problem, from a Christian Point of View," by President Charles A. Blanchard, of Wheaton College, Illinois. He said there were stars in a cloud-swept sky, such as the sharing of dividends with workmen at Milwankee and the division of the profits among employes at Pullman, Ill. But there were also devilish employers who were continually extorting the greatest possible exaction, and there was a law in prevalence in the business world called supply and demand, a law, the text of which is, "Grind as much as you can, and don't let the church inter-Nevertheless, the church had power to find the remedy and to enforce it by its molding influence upon public opinion. But before the church attempts to lift up the working classes or to win their confi-dence, it must give them its hand and not reach out a 10-loot pole. As for the church's best method, it was to secure by law to the wage worker as much improvement as possible, and do the rest by spreading the spirit of the gospel.

Dr. Blanchard presided at the afternoon session. The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. J. D. Brownlee, Rev. Prof. Anron Rittenhouse, of Dickenson College was then introduced. He delivered an ad dress on "Popular Objections to National Reform." Among other things, Prof. Rit-tenhouse said that Christianity has a right-ful place in the political organization of the Government. It is an indispensable ele-ment in political life, and yet objections are urged against it in the name of the State, of Christ and of conscience, Objections are raised against Christianity in politics in the name of the State because politics is a non-Christian organization; in the name of Christ, on the ground that His kingdom is not the world; in the name of conscience, be-cause it is recognized that religious scruples ought to be observed, but to gain personal ends they must be evaded.

A MISLEADING NOTION. The allegation that the State is secular is misleading. There is no non-moral sphere among men. The civil government has to do with moral and religious considerations because it has to do with moral and religious beings. The civil government cannot ignore the higher nature in the man. The highest end of the citizen must be the highest end of the State. People say men cannot be made moral by law. But laws can be made which will not legalize men to do wrong. A State may become Christian without becoming a State church just as a business man may become a Christian without transforming his store into a chapel and his employes into evangelists. Objec-tions are raised against the public school system because the people do not want secular education. The State is burdened with the function of educating the children. The church is burdened with the function of educating the children morally.

The Christian Government, instead of ignoring conscience, must appeal to conscience. Let conscience speak and the Bible will remain in the public schools; the lioner traffic will hasten to its downfall and the injustices to mankind will be over-"The State and the Family" was discussed by Rev. George K. Morris, D. D., of Philadelphia. He said marriage and religion are twin pillars in the State. Destroy religion and the basis of good government is destroyed. Make Government im-possible, and the infidels will be driven into the support of religion. Permit marriage to be damaged, and the Government is undermined. Only by marriage can the home exist, and the home is earth's most precious thing. Here has woman found her throne. Outside of the home she is a wanderer—a discredited competitor on battlefield of life.

WITHOUT THE HOME there can be no State, no Nation, no Gov-ernment. Man also finds his true estate in the home. There is no rest in the hotel or boarding house. Outside of the home he is in a perpetual storm, an uneuding battle. The so-called principles of business to the man without a home are but principles of barbarism. How many men there are in business to-day that are as diabolical as were the British fathers in the days of the heptarchy, when might was made right! are business men to-day who go out to scalp and skin their neighbors, and hang them up to dry that they may sell their carcasses. Then they go home at night—not home—but to their boarding house, and count their scalps. That's business! The home is not a cheap thing. It is the The home is not a cheap sning. It is the only place where there is a possibility of the development of childhood. It is a custom in London to discharge an employe for getting married. This is the result of a greedy, covetous attack upon the home. What this Government wants to do is to stop making people immoral by law. same principle applies to marriages. There are multitudes of men who pass for moral men who go into marriage hastily, knowing that if they don't like it they can get out again for $100 or $200.

At the close of Dr. Morris' address the officers of the National Reform Association officers of the National Reform Association took a position on the stage and were photographed.

Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, Secretary of the World's W. G. T. U., was then introduced. She rend a paper on the subject of "Peace and Arbitration." Mrs. Woodbridge held that all differences between natious ought to be settled by arbitration. She reviewed the late Civil War, and estimated that if the matter had been settled by arbithat if the matter had been settled by arbitration the nation would have saved 365,000 men and nearly $5,000,000. STRONG OBSERVANCE OF SUNDAY.

Last night's session was presided over by Mrs. Woodbridge, of the W. C. T. U. There was a large attendance. The meeting was apened with an address by the Bev. Wilbur F. Crafts, D. D., Field Secretary of the American Sabbath Union. Dr. Crafts referred to the bill before Congress for the purpose of stopping the mail service on Bundsy. He held that it was practicable, and referred to the postal system in London where no mail is distributed for the whole 24 hours of the Sabbath. As to the stopping of Sunday trains, he said that they have the testimony of railroad officials and engineers, to the effect that it is practicable and desirable. He said he believed that the President is only waiting eved that the President is only waiting for the day of the inauguration centennial to render it appropriate, to send out his proclamation calling for Sunday rest in the ure the convention is pushing.

He maintained that the most conscientions and best men are barred from the postoffice service by reason of being compelled to work on Sunday. Thus the service suffered. There is a Sunday rest law in the Constitution of the United States, but it is a monopoly for one man. That man is the President, and the clause is the one that says he shall have ten days to consider bills. "exclusive of Sundays." This, he said, is the acorn, and it only remains for Congress to let it grow into the wide-spreading oak in the shape of this bill.

IDEALS OF LIBERTY. Referring to the cry of personal liberty, he said it was preached to us by friends that came from abroad. When they are asked who taught them about liberty they say, "Bismarck." The kind of liberty Bismarck taught them was liberty for one man only to do as he pleased, and make others please him, and that one man was Bismarck.

Mrs. Josephine C. Batcham, Superintendent of Sabbath Observance for the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, followed Dr. Crafts. She spoke on "The Sabbath and How to Observe It. The Rev. S. F. Scovil, D. D., President of Wooster University, concluded the even-ing with further remarks on the Sabbath question. He detailed the two great sources of the opposition to the Sabbath reform, as the ineradical depravity of human nature which stands ready, underlying all, to aid every measure and the greed of gain.
